A discourse community is a group of people who share a set of discourses, understood as basic values and assumptions, and ways of communicating about those goals. Linguist John Swales defined discourse communities as "groups that have goals or purposes, and use communication to achieve these goals". Some examples of a discourse community might be those who read and/or contribute to a particular ...

From the above, it is clear that the sustainability of a thing (project, technology, policy, etc.) is of definite interest. Policy principles and corporate accountability require that a "sustainability analysis" (SA for short) may be part of the justification to adopt a policy, to implement a technology, to purchase a product, etc.
